

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A key pad has resin key tops on a key sheet. The resin key tops have in their side surfaces clearance portions of a configuration in conformity with an outer configuration of interference members at least an upper portions of which are situated in displacement regions at bottom surface edges of the resin key tops allowing their displacement when they are depressed.